

Your pieces are widely regarded as being timeless in terms of longevity in the fashion world. Do you bother paying much attention to trends?

Sometimes I do, but in small doses. If a trend calls me and appeals to me, then I might add my touch to it and change it the way I prefer.

What are your goals with your brand and do you see yourself progressing?

I take each collection at a time and hope to see my designs worn internationally one day.

What are some of your future plans down the road?

I plan to keep doing what I love the most and to let things run their natural course! 🐍

Interviewed by: Mira El-Örr Bleik

